

SteelEye from Adam Phones

Meeting regulation and empowering your data

SteelEye from Adam Phones, enables financially regulated companies to consolidate their order, trade, complete communications suite, CRM and market data to meet regulatory requirements and gain powerful insights into behavioural and commercial activity.

This unique cloud platform is able to ingest independent, unstructured data from an infinite number of sources, for both customer/regulatory analysis and internal performance benchmarking. These sources can include mobile and fixed line call recordings, text messages, emails and attachments, IM chats, documents, trade, market and reference data, and more.

By amalgamating all forms of communication into a single, intelligent interface firms are able to perform transaction reporting and trade reconstruction, ensure accurate record keeping, deliver best execution and report on market abuse.

SteelEye from Adam Phones can be supplied standalone or in tandem with our advanced mobile and fixed line call recording products. It offers simple, per seat licencing combined with rapid deployment to deliver a low cost solution free of risk and complexity.
